Job Descriptions and Job Profiles

We will endeavour to provide you with a job description or profile, which outlines your primary tasks and duties. This will be given to you at the start of your employment with us. However, you may be asked to perform other duties if one of your colleagues is off sick or on annual leave.

Hours of Work

Due to the variety of roles within the Company hours of work may differ. Your hours of work are noted in your Main Statement of Terms and Conditions of Employment.

Break Periods

Overtime

From time to time we may require you (depending on the position you hold with us) to work overtime in order to meet the needs of the business. This will be in cases where we have committed certain deadlines to our clients. In such circumstances, your full support is paramount in order to meet the needs and expectation of our client. It will also ensure the growth and future prosperity of our business.

Overtime is classified as those hours worked in excess of 39 or those, which are noted in either (or both) your offer letter and/or your Main Statement of Terms and Conditions of Employment.

Any entitlement to be paid for overtime working will be detailed in your Main Statement of Terms and Conditions of Employment.

Short Time Working and Lay Off

We reserve the right to invoke the statutory rules pertaining to 'short term lay off'. That is, we will only exercise this right in cases of a serious downturn in business and in so doing we will ensure we comply with the law in this regard including paying the said guaranteed payments.

After 4 weeks, we will review the circumstances in accordance with the law.

In normal circumstances we would prefer that your employment with us is your 'whole' and main employment. Wages

Payment of wages

Your rate of pay will be as detailed in your Main Statement of Terms and Conditions of Employment.

All payments are made to weekly paid personnel into a bank account of your choice every Friday.

Salaries are paid to salaried personnel on the last Friday of the month into a bank account of your choice.

The Company does not pay wages cash in hand.

A pay slip is given to you showing a breakdown of all payments. However it is your responsibility to pick up your wage slip and cordially check that the details are correct.

In addition it is your responsibility to inform the Wages Office, your Foreman or Line Manager of any changes, which could affect your wages.

Overpayments

From time to time we may accidentally make an overpayment in relation to your wages. In such circumstances, we will seek to reimburse the loss by making a deduction for such overpayments, where you have not worked the equivalent amount of hours and as such, are not entitled to this amount of money. The full amount will be recovered from your wages and will be deducted in accordance with the clause in your Main Statement of Terms and the Employment Rights Act 1996.

Underpayments

If you believe we have underpaid you then please contact the Wages Office or your Line Manager for advice and assistance in this regard.

Time Sheet Completion and Signing In and Out

It is vitally important that we keep up to date and accurate records both in relation to the Inland Revenue and our company accounts. Thus if you are required to sign in and out you must do so when you commence and finish your day's work. This enables the Foreman or your Line Manager and the Wages Office to 'accurately' calculate your wages. It also ensures that the Company complies with the Inland Revenue and other statutory lead bodies.

Bonus Payments

There may be occasions when we pay you an 'effectiveness' or other bonus. Such payments are never guaranteed and are wholly dependent on the Company's and your individual performance.

Further details can be found in your Main Statement of Terms and Conditions of Employment for more details.

Income Tax and National Insurance

We are required by law to make deductions from your pay such as Income Tax and National Insurance.

If you do not have a National Insurance number, you will need to contact GOV.UK application line on 0800 141 2075. If lost apply online at www.gov.uk / apply-national-insurance-number

If you do not have a P45, you will be taxed at the emergency rate and may have to claim back any over payments, from the Inland Revenue. If you do not have a P45, please ask for a HMRC starter check list. This will help obtain your correct tax coding.

Other Deductions

Other deductions (where applicable) made from your pay will be shown on your pay slip. If you have any doubt or query concerning a deduction, you should speak to your Foreman, Line Manager or the Wages Office.

Voluntary Deductions

Although the Company will require written authorisation, we are happy to make deductions for both individual savings schemes and union subscriptions.

For further details please liaise with either your Foreman, Line Manager or the Wages Office.
